

HAVE YOU WEAK LUNGS?

Do colds settle on your chest or in your bronchial tubes? Do coughs hang on, or are you subject to throat troubles?

Such troubles should have immediate treatment with the strengthening powers of Scott's Emulsion to guard against consumption which so easily follows.

Scott's Emulsion contains pure cod liver oil which peculiarly strengthens the respiratory tract and improves the quality of the blood; the glycerine in it soothes and heals the tender membranes of the throat.

Scott's is prescribed by the best specialists. You can get it at any drug store.

COMMUNICATIONS.

LOYAL TO NOMINEE.

To the Editor of the Register:

To prevent any possible misunderstanding the writer wishes to say to the freemen of Cornwall that he is loyal to the nomination made for town representative at the primary held September 12, 1916.

Cornwall, Vt., September 23, 1916.

F. H. WARNER.

A FARMER'S RHYME.

FAREWELL TO SUMMER.

Again the summer months have passed,
And longer shadows now are cast;
Meantime we hear the cricket cry:
"The summer days have all gone by."

We loved you, Summer, full of joys
And sportive like young girls and boys,
And always in a happy mood
While storing up our winter's food.

Though some prefer the longer nights,
And utilize electric lights;
However that may chance to be,
The summer sun is best for me.

Who can forget the summer day,
Its waving grain and wealth of hay,
Its early sunrise, morning dew,
With charming sweetness ever new?

The spider's web spun on the grass,
So strangely like a looking-glass,
Most beautiful, adorned with dew,
And every morning formed anew?

The wasps and bees and butterflies,
And myriad insects in the skies,
All have a place by nature given,
To spend with us their summer heaven.

The ant is happy in its way,
The robin sings at dawn of day,
And frogs sing out their pure delight,
When come the shades of somber night.

Dear summer-time, no one can tell
Of all the charms that in thee dwell;
And now you're gone, we sadly miss
Thy peaceful charms and joyous bliss.

It chills the tendrils round the heart
To say farewell, and thus to part;
And yet, in hope, we can but smile,
To think we'll part but for a while.

VERMONT OPINION

CANDIDATE WILSON.

Morrisville News and Citizen.

M. W. Wilson, one of the famous Wilson brothers of the Bristol Herald, is the republican nominee for representative from that town. Myron is a loyal republican, a good townsman and will make an A 1 representative. Success to him!

JUDGE WEEKS LOYAL.

Barre Times.

The letter of Speaker John E. Weeks, published yesterday, shows that the Middlebury man can be a good loser and that in spite of the fact that he was barely beaten out for the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor he will be loyal to the nominee. The tone of his letter is of the sort to appeal to his fellow Vermonters.

ADDISON CO. IN THE SENATE.

Bristol Herald.

Burlington is to have three of the four senators in Chittenden county this year. In Addison county both the nominees are residents of the south district. However, we believe Henry E. Day and Abram W. Foote, the nominees, are men big enough and with ideas sufficiently broad to represent all sections of Addison county, and we think they will do it in a way to meet the approval of all the people.

VOTED FOR WILSON.

Burlington News.

"Was not in Burlington, but just the same the party was of the 'ultra, awfully ultra' variety. One man, however, was extremely bored. The hostess, observing this, went up to him and engaged him in conversation. She talked automobiles. He had heard of Fords, that was all. She talked theatre; his mind was a blank. She then talked literature. At first he knew nothing. He had never heard of Huckleberry Finn. "But perhaps," said the hostess, "you have read 'Puddinghead Wilson'?"

His face brightened. "Yes," he said, "I voted for that feller once." The which, of course, all goes to show what some persons think of some other persons.

LICENSE SHOULD BE REVOKED.

Rutland News.

The automobile driver implicated in the serious accident in Rutland Wednesday night should have his driver's license revoked without delay, inasmuch as it is the second accident in which he has figured within a few weeks. Indeed it is to be seriously questioned as to whether this man should be permitted in the future to handle an automobile, for he seems to be of the type of drivers that are a constant menace to those both in his own car and in others. With the great multiplication of automobiles the State cannot afford to permit any incompetent, or reckless, or drunken persons the right to drive. Greater safeguards must be provided by reason of the greater number and the greater speed capabilities of cars.

GREEN MOUNTAIN ORCHARDS.

The Advance.

If you have tested the far-famed Oregon apples you are probably possessed of the same feeling toward Oregon that was once extended to Connecticut by the purchasers of wooden nutmegs.

How aggravating to those acquainted with the apples of New England to attempt to satisfy apple hunger with the poor western substitutes. If there are any apples grown in any region of a better flavor or more delectable than the fruit of New England it cannot be on this continent.

Vermont turkey in the fall, Vermont maple products in the spring, and why not Vermont apples all winter in the homes of the elite? Green Mountain orchards are on the gain and if there is not an enticing prospect for the alert orchardist then our vision is wrong. We shall not bother with the vision however. So long as we are able to distinguish Vermont apples we rest content.

WELCOME FOR 1ST VERMONT.

Brattleboro Phoenix.

We shall all give the glad hand to the boys of the First Vermont regiment, who are now returning from the Mexican border, after nearly three months of strenuous training under trying conditions. It speaks well for the change in sanitation since 1898 that nearly all of the boys at Eagle Pass have remained in good health and that no serious epidemics have swept through their ranks, when we remember the large death rate and the physical wrecks from typhoid, malaria and other diseases among our poorly equipped and poorly fed volunteers who answered the call in the Spanish-American war. The call to the border this year may be only an incident in history—we hope so. But let it be remembered that it found the First Vermont regiment ready, and that it was one of the first organizations among all the national guard of the country to start southward. And while these boys who are now returning did not face death and privations on a foreign soil, give them due credit that they had the spirit and the will and were ready to do so if their country demanded the sacrifice. We shall be glad to have our boys of 1916 safely back home, but let us give them due honor for what they dared and were willing to do when they went forward to face what appeared to them unknown perils and dangers.

THE VERMONT SOLDIERS.

Bennington Banner.

It is a good thing sometimes to go away from home to get the news. The young men of the Vermont National guard have sometimes been criticised but when the test came and they were called out for actual service they went bravely and promptly and have earned credit for themselves and honor for their State. The Eagle Pass Herald of last Thursday has the following to say about the Vermont regiment:

"The Vermont regiment is due to leave for their home State tomorrow or next day. Eagle Pass regrets to see them go. Col. Reeves and his regiment have made an enviable record and leave many friends in Eagle Pass.

"The men have been busy soldiering and making the best of conditions from the day they landed here, and their camp was turned from a rocky hill into one of the most convenient at Eagle Pass, and the conveniences secured by co-operation and united effort have been remarkable.

"Yes, we regret to see them go, because they made good and were the real goods. When they get back home and are mustered out and again resume their places in private life we trust it will be final and that their services will not be needed again, but if perchance there should be a second call and order be to report at Eagle Pass they will find a most hearty welcome.

THE ATHLETIC YOUTH.

Rutland News.

To the typical boy, the prominent figures of the base ball diamond are his greatest heroes. He would rather play in a world's series than sit in congress. And the money end of it is very dazzling. Every school ball nine is full of young fellows who cherish the thought of eventually playing with some league team. And when the contests in both of the big leagues are so close as they are today with the end of the season so near, hundreds of thousands of worthwhile boys all over the country have ecstatic dreams of pitching this nine or that to victory or batting in a home run at the psychological moment to land the pennant.

It is a puzzling question to many parents, how far a boy who is a good athlete should be encouraged to enter baseball or other sports in a professional way. A good ball player can of course for a few years make more money than in any other. If he has resolution and a cool head, he can accumulate a little capital, and use it as a means of creating a business opening.

There are many instances of noted ball players who have salted down their savings. Famous pitchers are now pitching hay. Vermont has at least one conspicuous example of a retired well-to-do baseball twirler who is doing this, Ray Collins. Two others, at least, still in the game are of eminently the right sort, Larry Gardner of Enosburg Falls and Ray Fisher of Middlebury. In all lines of industry many of the big ex-leaguers are doing well and laying foundations of substantial success.

When the leagues cease play in the fall, the players get the opportunity to lay the foundations of some future business success. They can study law, engineering, farming, whatever appeals to them and many of them do so. Unfortunately there are a lot of others who spend the off-season in mere loafing, or in work connected with sports that lead to no business success.

Baseball life has many temptations. The managements, of course, discourage dissipation, but there is constant incitement in that direction. There is every tendency to free spending. Some athletes have resolution enough to save money, but too many of them finally invest it foolishly and without preparation for business.

Before encouraging a boy to enter professional sport, his friends ought to be sure that he has the firm mental fiber that can resist the deterioration of his environment.

MINISTERS IN POLITICS.

Springfield Reporter.

The Reporter has already commented upon the wise action of the Democrats of Bethel, who have again selected the Rev. J. Wesley Miller, pastor of the Methodist church at that place, as their candidate for town representative. Mr. Miller has already been four successive times elected to the House by his Bethel constituents, and will doubtless be triumphantly returned to serve his fifth term, at which time he will be one of the foremost men in the General Assembly.

Now comes the news that the Republicans of Randolph have selected as their candidate for town representative the erstwhile militant Progressive, the Rev. Fraser Metzger, pastor of the Congregational church of that place.

For two successive terms the Democrats of Plainfield sent to the House the Rev. Arthur W. Hewitt, pastor of the Methodist church of that town. Mr. Hewitt is a striking and original figure, and a genius of no mean order. In his first term at Montpelier his eloquence and sagacity made him a marked man; and, in his work as chairman of the committee on education during his second term, he put through the present educational bill, making, in its advocacy, a speech which won the highest encomiums from President Thomas of Middlebury, and other good judges. Other utterances of his commanded universal respect, and his advocacy was sought by those having important measures in charge, while his inimitable wit made him an indispensable figure at all gala occasions. Since then his services have been in great demand for occasional addresses, and his membership on the State Board of Education have given him increased prominence in educational circles.

Realizing this the Democrats of Washington county have made him their leading candidate for county senator, and the Prohibitionists of the State endorsed that candidacy at their convention at Montpelier last week. Whether or not Mr. Hewitt will win out in a strong Republican county remains to be seen, but he was born and bred in Berlin, and is a graduate of Montpelier seminary, and is more generally known than the other candidates, and so apparently stands something of a chance to be promoted to the upper house this winter. Quiet, modest, unassuming, the opposite of self-assertive and self-seeking he continually makes friends, and demonstrates a sterling worth that may overcome his political handicap and make him a winner.

MEMORIAL TO MR. AND MRS. MASON.

The following from the Los Angeles, Calif., Tribune of August 29 will be of interest to readers of the Register:

"To initiate a newly equipped nursery dining-room for the little tots at the Florence Crittenton home, and two new dormitories for the adult inmates of the home, the directors of the institution will keep open house tomorrow afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock. The new dormitories were completely and beautifully furnished by Mrs. C. H. Andrews of Beverly, Mass., and Mrs. M. A. Munroe of Middlebury, Vt., twin sisters of the late O. T. Johnson in memory of their parents, Rev. and Mrs. Perez Mason of Boston. The Florence Crittenton home itself was a gift from Mr. Johnson and his wife."

APPLE CROP IN BRANDON.

There are more apples in Brandon orchards this season than for many years. One orchardist estimates that he will pack at least 1,000 barrels.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES.

The expense of the United States senatorial campaign of Senator Carroll S. Page of Hyde Park was $21,445.48 and of ex-Gov. Allen M. Fletcher of Cavendish, $22,425.39, according to sworn returns filed with the secretary of state. Page and Fletcher, who were candidates for the Republican nomination in the first Vermont primary, fought each other with literature and advertising.

PARALYSIS CASE IN ESSEX.

The second case of poliomyelitis to appear this year in Chittenden county is that of Orvis, the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Remington. The case was discovered at Essex Center Saturday, and is the one which has appeared in closest proximity to Burlington. Although laboratory tests were not completed by physicians of the State board of health Sunday, Drs. Ladd and Taylor, who have seen the infant who is suffering with the disease, are of the opinion that it is a plain case of infantile paralysis.

HYDEVILLE MAN KILLED.

The horribly mutilated body of Richard R. Morris of Hydeville, a blacksmith employed by Durick & Keenan on Scotch hill in Fair Haven, was discovered lying between the rails of the main electric car line just east of the Delaware & Hudson overpass in Castleton Saturday just before midnight and the supposition is that the man had been rolled and cut by three cars which passed this point before the body was found.

FARM BUILDINGS BURNED.

A large barn, a granary and other buildings on the farm of Emil Kendall near South Franklin were destroyed by fire, which was discovered about 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the barn. The fire, which originated in an unused part of the barn, had made such headway when discovered by Mr. Kendall's nephew, Milo Morris, that efforts to extinguish it had little effect, and the family directed most of their efforts to saving the house, which was in danger from flying sparks. A large quantity of hay, which was in the barn was destroyed, but all of the stock was saved. The loss is estimated at $5,000, which is partially covered by insurance.

VERMONT TEACHERS.

About one-third of the teachers of Vermont attended at least three weeks of summer school. This is a record that has not been approached by any other state in the Union. The attendance was not limited to the institutions in our own state. There were Vermont teachers at George Washington University, Washington, Columbia University, University of New York, Simmons College, Harvard University and Dartmouth College. According to the new regulation towns will receive state aid according to the kind of certificate held by the teachers in their rural schools, four dollars a week being allowed for the life certificate, three dollars for the qualification certificate and two dollars for the probationary certificate. The state will give trained teachers rebates only to towns which employ teachers holding one of the new certificates.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOLS.

The State Board of Education have employed Mr. Clyde M. Hill of Springfield, Mo., as supervisor of junior high schools. Mr. Hill has had several years of experience in conducting a junior high school and has spent two years in graduate study specializing on the subject. He is considered one of the best qualified men in the country for the supervision of this line of work. Mr. Hill will visit each of the schools for a day or two at the beginning of this term and will then return for a more extended visit later. He will visit the schools in the capacity of an advisor and helper rather than as an inspector. Those who are competent to judge say that Vermont is in the lead in the establishment of junior high schools and plans for them. It is the desire of the State Board to make a success of these schools in order that the experience gained during this year may be of assistance to those who desire to establish similar schools later.

BRISTOL.

The Rev. G. C. Chappell, pastor of the First Baptist church, has tendered his resignation to take effect the last of October. Mr. Chappell has a position as instructor in Yale University. He will also continue his studies.

Chauncey Bisbee of Ferrisburg was in town Monday.

Word has been received that Mrs. E. M. Holman of Fairfield, Me., is in poor health. The Rev. E. M. Holman was a former pastor of the First Baptist church.

The first meeting of the Outlook club will be held Friday afternoon at two o'clock with the president, Mrs. David R. Bosworth. Home economics and citizenship will be studied this year.

Albert Meilleur has gone to the Fanny Allen hospital for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Farr of Hyde Park are visiting Mr. Farr's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Farr.

Happy Old Age

The foundation of your future happiness rests upon your ability to accumulate while you are yet young. If you start to make provision for old age while earning capacity is at the highest point, then you have taken a long step in the right direction. Are you putting a little money aside on a definite day each week or month? And when? Are you looking for absolute

Security and Safety

Or, are you taking chances on uncertain investment to win more income than "safety" says you could reasonably expect to get? Money earns money, but the wage it pays must be fair—to you and your old age.
